Making Effective and Appropriate Contributions A. Workplace Context

Role Clarification

Client/Family/Community Center

and use this knowledge appropriately to establish and achieve patient/client/family and community goals.

To support inter-professional collaborative practice, practitioners are able to:

describe their own role and that of others recognize and respect the diversity of other health and social care roles, responsibilities, and competencies perform their own roles in a culturally respectful way communicate roles, knowledge, skills, and attitudes using appropriate language access others' skills and knowledge appropriately through consultation consider the roles of others in determining their own professional and interprofessional roles integrate competencies/roles seamlessly into models of service delivery

Practitioners understand their own role and the roles of those in other professions,

Practitioners seek out, integrate and value, as a partner, the input, and the engagement of the client family/community in

Professionalism

Team's Role and Objectives

Collaborative Leadership Practitioners understand and can apply leadership principles that support a collaborative practice model. This domain supports shared decision-making as well as leadership but it also implies continued individual accountability for one's own actions, responsibilities and roles as explicitly defined within one 's professional/disciplinary sco peofpractice. To support inter-professional collaborative practice, practitioners collaboratively determine who will provide group leadership in any given situation by supporting: work with others to enable effective patient/client outcomes advancement of interdependent working relationships among all participants facilitation of effective team processes facilitation of effective decision making facilitation of effective decision making establishment of a climate for collaborative practice among all participants Co-creation of a climate for shared leadership and collaborative practice application of collaborative decision-making principles integration of the principles of continuous quality improvement to workprocesses and outcomes Everyone Plays a Role For Team Members Earmembers throughout the company are linked in a chain that ultimately serves the customer serves the customer

Teammembers at all levels have information that will help colleagues perform their jobs or satisfy customers better

Agood customer service reputation is the result of lots of small improvements in how everyone does their job and not one sudden transformation

Bydelivering great service you set a good example for other team members

For Team Managers

Clearly communicate the organisation's and the team's strategy and priorities Empower team members to be flexible in helping customers, such as by offering discounts to compensate mistakes or by agreeing unusually quick (but realistic) turnarounds for important customers on a deadline  Ensure the lessons from customer complaints are communicated throughout the team so that products, processes and customer service can be improved Recognize and reward great customer service within the team  Offer feedback and training when customer service levels fall short
B. Standard Operating Procedures
Inter-Professional Communication Practitioners from different professions communicate with each other in a collaborative, responsive and responsible manner. To support inter-professional collaborative practice, practitioners are able to:
□establish team work communication principles □actively listen to other team members including clients or families □communicate to ensure common understanding of care decisions □develop trusting relationships with patients/clients/families and other team members □effectively use information and communication technology to improve interprofessional client and community centers.

Inter-Professional Conflict Resolution

Practitioners actively engage self and others, including the client/family, in positively and constructively addressing disagreements as they arise. To support inter-
